

Ana Cristina L. A. Ferreira

"Técnicas para a Diagnose Probabilística de Sistemas de Potência"

This dissertation tackles the problem related with the diagnosis of power systems performance indices.

Several statistical approaches are investigated including central location criteria, measures and techniques relying on order statistics.

A set of actual numerical results is given, reflecting the real performance of an existing large system observed for several years.